

Dr Günter Umbach is a board-certified gynecologist, a former research fellow at the University of Texas, a member of the Institute of Management Consultants USA and the author of two books on how to succeed in the healthcare market.

He worked as a medical director and a marketing director in the pharmaceutical industry. His training workshops and consulting sessions help professionals in twelve countries achieve results and strengthen their market position.

For free tips please visit www.umbachpartner.com